Management Commentary

"We expect 2018 to be a truly transformative year for RGS," said Dennis Lacey, CEO of RGS Energy. "We turned our focus on the tremendous market opportunity with POWERHOUSE™. This opportunity gained a huge boost last week with the new California solar mandate for new residential construction. There are also significant competitive barriers to entry with in-roof solar shingles, and we believe we have the most economical and aesthetically pleasing solution. So, as we start production and sales in this market, we expect our quarterly operating income to turn positive in 2019."
